

A|H

An Acceptable Hatred

A guided educational toolkit for recognizing and answering antizionism

Kile Jones

MEMORY / DEFENSE / STATEHOOD

THANK YOU

Thank you for purchasing An Acceptable Hatred. This toolkit is written for educators, facilitators, and discussion leaders who need a clear way to teach and answer antizionism.

HOW TO USE THIS TOOLKIT

Begin with the Teacher's Guide. Use the lesson pages and participant materials during instruction. Return to the facilitator model and answer key after writing, discussion, and revision.

STAY IN TOUCH

For updates, essays, and future releases, visit kilejones.substack.com.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Kile Jones researches and writes on modern antizionism, history, and the uses of language. He holds two master's degrees in Religious Studies from Boston University, the M.T.S. and the S.T.M. He founded and edited the Claremont Journal of Religion at the Claremont Colleges. His work has appeared in Philosophy Now, The Humanist, The Routledge Guide, and Free Inquiry. He writes at The Inverted World: kilejones.substack.com.

COPYRIGHT

An Acceptable Hatred
© 2026 Kile Jones. All rights reserved.

PURCHASE AND USE

The purchaser may print or copy lesson pages for use with one class or discussion group.

QUOTATIONS

Brief quotations may be used for review, commentary, or scholarship.

LIMITS

This packet may not be reproduced for resale, reposted in full, or distributed as a free public copy.

UPDATES

For updates, essays, and future releases, visit kilejones.substack.com.

07

Teacher's Guide

How to teach each lesson in order.

08

Orientation

What participants should understand.

09

The Basic Move

Three recurring reversals.

10

Berkeley Example

Institutional antizionist language.

11

How the Libels Work

Three libels, one picture.

12

Genocide Source

Read, discuss, and revise.

13

How to Answer Genocide

Read the page closely.

14

Apartheid Source

Read, discuss, and revise.

15

How to Answer Apartheid

Read the sentence closely.

16

Slogan Source

Read the words on the page.

17

How to Answer the Slogan

Read the words to the end.

18

Worksheet

A planning sheet for a written response.

19

Facilitator Model / Completed Workbook

Sample responses.

20

Facilitator Notes and Answer Key

Use these notes while leading the pages.

21

Facilitator Quick-Start Sheet

One-page setup before class begins.

22

Sources and Case Studies Companion

Additional examples for close reading.

23

Response Cards

Short prompts for live use.

24

Program Overview

A one-page summary of the packet.

25

Participant Pamphlet

A short guide for students.

26

Intro Slide Deck

Slide sequence.

27

Closing

Final distinction and careful use of sources.

BEFORE THE LESSON

Choose one source page and its matching answer page. Print the worksheet or give each participant a separate sheet of paper. Write the five worksheet questions at the top if copies are not available.

FACILITATOR

Read the source aloud once. Define only unfamiliar terms. Do not begin by giving the answer.

PARTICIPANTS

Read silently, underline the libels, and mark the exact words that make the claim. Then write before discussion.

WRITE FIRST

Participants write before discussion. They quote one phrase, identify the libel, and answer the statement on the page.

DISCUSS SECOND

Ask the printed questions in order. Keep the group tied to the words on the page. If discussion drifts, return to the exact wording.

REVISE AFTER

Participants revise after discussion. Correct what is inaccurate or unclear, strengthen the evidence, and keep the answer direct.

CORE CLAIM

Antizionism is a modern hate movement aimed at Jews, Jewish history, and Jewish collective life.

WHAT TO DO

Read the words closely. Quote the phrase that makes the libel. State what the statement says. Then answer it directly.

OPENING

Tell participants that the lesson is about reading antizionist language closely. The task is not to settle every historical question. The task is to identify the libel on the page and answer it with care.

MEMORY BECOMES MANIPULATION

Holocaust memory is treated as propaganda. Jewish suffering is treated as theater. Remembrance is treated as a trick used to win sympathy and silence criticism.

SELF-DEFENSE BECOMES AGGRESSION

The attack disappears. The threat disappears. The Israeli response is treated as the first violence.

STATEHOOD BECOMES RACISM

Jewish national life is treated as proof of supremacy before any specific law, act, or record is examined.

WRITE FIRST

Participants write one paragraph explaining which reversal is strongest in the source and quote the exact words that show it.

DISCUSS SECOND

Ask participants to place each source phrase under one or more reversals and explain why. After discussion, participants revise their paragraph.

SOURCE

April 2, 2026. Zahi Zalloua, "Anti-Zionism Is Not a Luxury." 5-7 p.m. 308A Doe, Doe Library, Third Floor. The event description casts anti-Zionism as a response to a genocidal Zionism, a Zionist world, murderous privilege, and supremacist ambitions.
This is an official university event description.

FACILITATOR

Read the source line aloud.
Explain that this is an institutional event description, not a composite example.

PARTICIPANTS

Underline genocidal Zionism, Zionist world, murderous privilege, settler, colonial domination, and supremacist ambitions.

WRITE FIRST

Write about 50 words before discussion. Quote one or two phrases. State what Zionism is being made to mean on this page.

DISCUSS SECOND

What is Zionism being cast as? Does this language target a policy, the state, or an entire people and its institutions? What does "the end of a Zionist world" mean here?

FACILITATOR / REVISION

Keep the discussion on the wording. Participants then revise their answer, cutting anything they cannot show from the page.

11

How the Libels Work

Three libels, one picture

WHITE

In antizionist use, "white" recasts Jews as European, privileged, powerful, and colonizing. It breaks the link between Jews and the Middle East and turns Jewish history into foreign presence.

SETTLER-COLONIAL

It recasts Jewish return as foreign conquest and presents Israel's removal as recovery rather than destruction.

GENOCIDE

It turns war and civilian suffering into proof of exterminatory intent before that intent has been shown.

TOGETHER

The three libels work together: foreign, powerful, racist, murderous. Once that picture is fixed, later facts are forced to fit it.

WRITE FIRST

Participants write four sentences: one for each libel and one for their combined effect. They should not summarize the whole conflict.

DISCUSS SECOND

Ask how each libel strengthens the others and what picture of Jews, Zionists, and Israel the three create together.

SOURCE

March 6, 2025. Eman Ghanayem, “For the Love of Genocide.” The Humanities Institute, UC Santa Cruz. The event description says the talk examines discourse used by those “supporting and perpetuating genocide in Gaza” and links that discourse to “Zionist loyalties” and “settler nationalism.” This is an official university event description.

FACILITATOR

Read the source line aloud. Explain that the page joins Zionism to genocide and settler nationalism.

PARTICIPANTS

Underline genocide in Gaza, Zionist loyalties, and settler nationalism.

WRITE FIRST

Write about 50 words before discussion. Quote one or two phrases. State what Zionism is being made to mean in this description.

DISCUSS SECOND

What is being alleged? What is being joined together? Does the page distinguish a state, a policy, and a political movement?

FACILITATOR / REVISION

Keep the discussion on the wording. Participants then revise their answer, cutting anything they cannot show from the page.

How to Answer Genocide

Read the page closely

THE PAGE

The page links Zionism to genocide and settler rule.

THE CLAIM

The event description joins genocide in Gaza to Zionist loyalties and settler nationalism.

THE TEST

What would have to be proved before Zionism could be named genocidal?

SHORT ANSWER

The page joins the words first and leaves the proof to be assumed. The question is what record would make that conclusion true.

FACILITATOR

Ask where the page moves from description to conclusion.

REVISION

Write a two- or three-sentence answer that stays with the words on the page.

SOURCE

October 8, 2024. University of North Texas protest chalk photograph. The chalk reads, "Israel is an apartheid state." The UNT Digital Library records it as a photograph from a campus walkout held that day.

This is a primary-source protest artifact preserved by a university archive.

FACILITATOR

Read the statement aloud once. Do not soften it. Do not add context before participants mark the words on the page.

PARTICIPANTS

Underline apartheid state. Then list what would have to be shown for that statement to stand.

WRITE FIRST

Write about 50 words before discussion. State what the statement claims and what would have to be proved.

DISCUSS SECOND

What population is being described? What law, territory, and governing authority would need to be identified? What has the statement already assumed?

FACILITATOR / REVISION

Keep the group specific. Participants then revise their answer, naming only what they can defend.

How to Answer Apartheid

Read the sentence closely

THE PAGE

"Israel is an apartheid state."

THE CLAIM

Which population is being named? Under what law? In what territory? Under what governing authority?

THE TEST

What categories would have to be named before the sentence could stand?

SHORT ANSWER

A sentence this broad needs categories and proof. It cannot stand by force of repetition.

FACILITATOR

Keep asking for the needed categories.

REVISION

Write a two- or three-sentence answer stating what would have to be shown.

SOURCE

October 8, 2024. University of North Texas protest chalk photograph. The chalk reads, "From the river to the sea, Palestine will be free." The UNT Digital Library records it as part of the same campus walkout. The archive preserves the slogan as it appeared on campus that day.

FACILITATOR

Read the slogan aloud once. Do not paraphrase it before discussion.

PARTICIPANTS

Mark the territory named and the political result implied by the words.

WRITE FIRST

Write about 50 words before discussion. State what land is being described and what political outcome would satisfy the slogan.

DISCUSS SECOND

What territory does the slogan name? What does free mean here? Does Israel remain in the result the slogan calls for?

FACILITATOR / REVISION

Keep the group on the words. Participants then revise their answer, removing anything they cannot show from the slogan.

How to Answer the Slogan

Read the words to the end

THE PAGE

The slogan names the land between the river and the sea.

THE CLAIM

What political order would satisfy it? Does Israel remain in that result?

THE TEST

What do the words name and what do they call for?

SHORT ANSWER

A slogan does not become evidence because a crowd repeats it. The words still have to be read for what they name and what they call for.

FACILITATOR

Keep the group on the words as written. Do not let them swap in softer wording.

REVISION

Write a two- or three-sentence answer stating what territory the slogan names and what outcome it seeks.

INSTRUCTIONS

Write the source at the top. Use brief notes here to plan your answer. For the full exercise, use separate paper and write about 50 words in complete sentences.

1. What are the exact words? Quote the phrase that makes the libel.

2. Which libel is being used?

3. What does the statement say Jews, Zionists, or Israel are?

4. What would have to be shown for the statement to stand?

5. Write a clear answer in two or three sentences.

BERKELEY EXAMPLE

The event description does not stay with a policy or a military action. It casts Zionism as genocidal, murderous, colonial, and fit for removal. The wording reaches beyond a government and toward a people and its institutions.

GENOCIDE SOURCE

The page links genocide in Gaza to Zionist loyalties and settler nationalism. That does not establish genocidal intent. It states the connection as if it were already settled.

APARTHEID SOURCE

The sentence gives a verdict before naming the population, law, territory, or governing authority that would have to be examined. A sentence this broad needs categories and proof.

SLOGAN SOURCE

The slogan names the whole land between the river and the sea. The question is what political order would satisfy it and whether Israel remains in that result.

Facilitator Notes and Answer Key

Use these notes while leading the pages

BERKELEY EXAMPLE

Keep the discussion on the wording. The page casts Zionism as genocidal, colonial, murderous, and fit for destruction.

GENOCIDE SOURCE

Press the difference between naming suffering and proving intent.

APARTHEID SOURCE

Keep asking: which population, under which law, in which territory, under whose rule?

SLOGAN SOURCE

Keep the group on territory and end state.

FINAL CHECK

Strong answers stay close to the page, quote the words, and do not outrun the source.

Facilitator Quick-Start Sheet

Use this page before class begins

1. CHOOSE THE PAGE

Pick one source page and its matching answer page.

2. READ IT ALOUD

Read the source once. Define only unfamiliar terms. Do not begin by giving the conclusion.

3. MARK THE WORDS

Have participants underline the libel and mark the exact words that make it.

4. WRITE FIRST

Have participants quote a phrase, name the libel, and answer the line on the page.

5. DISCUSS SECOND

Keep the group tied to the wording. Bring them back to the text when they drift.

6. REVISE AFTER

Have participants cut weak lines, keep what they can support, and make the answer more exact.

7. END CLEANLY

Close by asking what the words claimed and whether the page proved it.

UC SANTA CRUZ

March 6, 2025. Eman Ghanayem, “For the Love of Genocide.” The official event description links “genocide in Gaza” to “Zionist loyalties” and “settler nationalism.”

UNT APARTHEID PHOTO

October 8, 2024. University of North Texas protest chalk photograph. The chalk reads, “Israel is an apartheid state.” The archive preserves it as a campus protest artifact.

UNT SLOGAN PHOTO

October 8, 2024. University of North Texas protest chalk photograph. The chalk reads, “From the river to the sea, Palestine will be free.” The archive preserves it as it appeared on campus that day.

HOW TO USE THESE PAGES

Read the source line first. Mark the words that matter. Then test what the words say and what would have to be shown for them to stand.

CARD 1

Quote the exact words.

CARD 2

Name the libel.

CARD 3

State what the words say.

CARD 4

Ask what would have to be shown.

CARD 5

Answer in two or three sentences.

TEACHER'S GUIDE

The sequence for each lesson.

SOURCE PAGES

Pages participants read and mark.

ANSWER PAGES

Short model pages showing how to answer.

WORKSHEET

A planning page for written responses.

QUICK-START SHEET

A one-page setup guide.

COMPANION MATERIALS

Source pages, response cards, pamphlet, and slide deck.

WHAT YOU WILL DO

Read the source closely. Mark the exact words. Name the libel. Write before discussion. Revise after discussion.

WHAT TO LOOK FOR

Look for words that turn Jews, Zionists, or Israel into a fixed enemy.

HOW TO WRITE

Quote the phrase. State what it says. Ask what would have to be shown. Answer in clear sentences.

WHAT NOT TO DO

Do not summarize the whole conflict. Do not guess beyond the words on the page. Do not make claims the source does not support.

FINAL REMINDER

A slogan does not become evidence because a crowd repeats it.

SLIDE 1

Title

SLIDE 2What the lesson asks participants to doSLIDE 3

The Basic Move

SLIDE 4

Berkeley Example

SLIDE 5

How the Libels Work

SLIDE 6

Genocide Source

SLIDE 7

How to Answer Genocide

SLIDE 8

Apartheid Source

SLIDE 9

How to Answer Apartheid

SLIDE 10

Slogan Source

SLIDE 11

How to Answer the Slogan

SLIDE 12

Closing

FINAL POINT

A libel is not proved by repetition. A slogan does not become evidence because a crowd repeats it.

CAREFUL READING

Quote the words. Name the libel. Answer the line on the page.

USE OF SOURCES

Do not treat a slogan as proof. Do not treat a chant as analysis. Do not treat a hostile label as an established fact.

A people do not become foreign to their own ancestral home because others deny their history.

FINAL WRITING

Participants write a short closing paragraph stating what they will now look for when antizionist language appears on the page.

DISCUSSION

Ask one final question: what changed once the class stopped repeating the words and started reading them closely?